PROFILE

I am a developer with a background in music and the creative arts and have proven myself to be a personable and driven team member in every organization I've had the opportunity to work with. As a professional, I have a constant desire to learn and grow, a diplomatic heart for people, and a knack for diving in head first when problems or obstacles are encountered. As a software developer, I seek to use my creative background to bring beauty and style to websites, applications, and ultimately the company I work for.
